ALASKA DOGS FOR MAIL SLEDS

(By Associated Press)
KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Feb. 14.—Fast Alaska racing dogs are to be used this spring to pull mail and passenger sleds over the 84-mile trail between the ends of steel and the government railroad being built between Seward and Fairbanks, according to word received here. Several of the teams will be owned by Leonard Seppala, noted "musher," who several times won the Nome All-Alaska Sweepstakes dog race.

Even the most conservative business man does not object to hearing the cash register say it in jazz.
